BOYS OVERSEAS WRITE PARCELS ARRIVE SAFELY

ARRIVAL OF PARCELS OF TINNED GOODS IS SIGNAL FOR THANK-YOUS

THANK VETERANS

A letter to the Newmarket Veterans' Association from Pte. Charles Gordon, dated May 24, reads as follows: "Thanks very much for your swell parcel which I received when I came back from my seven days' leave. It sure is coming in handy this week, as we are on ration rations during this big army scheme we are having."

Rfn. Earl Cole writes (May 24): "I received your swell parcel of tinned food just before coming out on this scheme and it sure was welcome. The regiment has been on bully and hard tack for three days, but not my pal and I. We've been doing good, thanks to you men. Those peaches and pears really hit the spot. They were a real treat. I can't thank you all enough for all you are doing to make things easier for us. Give my thanks to all the people of Newmarket who make these parcels possible, and special thanks to those who give their time to buying, packing and mailing."

"I received your very welcome gift of 300 cigarettes," writes Pte. W. Shropshire. "I wish to thank you and the members of your organization for your generous gift and wish all of you the best of luck in the great work you are doing for the boys in uniform."

Tpr. A. L. Emmerson writes (May 22) to express his thanks to the veterans and all who make the parcels possible.

LAC Jack Watts writes (April 29): "The wonderful effort put forth by organizations and individuals of Newmarket makes us all proud to think that we are citizens of such a great town. We locals over here will never be able to express our thanks for all that you folks have done for us. The increasing number of lads to look after seems to be met by a larger amount of supporters. Yours is the type of spirit that will help to hasten the end of this whole mess."

"The isolated station we are on now is actually a sportsmen's paradise. There are enough players on this station and surrounding stations to form an excellent football league. Keen competition has arisen. The Canadian Y.M.C.A. supplies us with excellent equipment. Our squadron team is at present leading the league. Occasionally we get into a game of soccer or field hockey with the English lads. From what I have seen, cricket is (page 8, col. 7)

ARMY IS AT HOME TO THOUSANDS OF PEOPLE

War or no war, it was the biggest July 1 "do" seen at Newmarket fair grounds for many a year. But it was war, and Col. R. B. Harkness, D.S.O., and the military camp gave the public an interesting "look-see" at the army. It was an "Army Week" event, and the public saw bayonet drill, Bren gun drill (in pouring rain) and obstacle-hurdling with full equipment which showed the hardness of the 1942 soldier. The public also had a chance to visit the gas-chamber.

The victors sampled army food, and decided that there was plenty of it, and wholesome too, even if it isn't exactly the same as the boys got at home.

Newmarket school children joined the parade through town in the morning when Major-General C. F. Constantine, D.S.O., took the salute. The children had a thrill when the general gave them a special salute.

The Newmarket Citizens' band and the camp band provided the music.

While a citizens' committee, of which H. E. Lambert was the dynamo, handled the event, over at the grounds Lieut. T. George took charge and put on a carefully organized and admirably carried out program. Three and four events ran simultaneously.

Pte. Fred Heywood, not yet used to the lovely new uniform the government has given him, the accomplished C.F.R.B. announcer of the "Red, White and Blue" program, tied together the simultaneous events with professional skill. His microphone kept the crowd in touch with the events they couldn't possibly "cover" for themselves.

The camp stole an early lead in the track events over Toronto police huskies, but dropped back in second place until Larry O'Connor, finishing the 880-yard relay, the final event, tied the day's score at 47-41.

O'Connor, the Olympic star, did the hurdles magnificently. In the morning the Navy football team eliminated the air force 8-3, and in the evening the Camp team won the 8-0 victory. It was good football with smart pitching. Morris pitched to Russell for the Navy in the morning. Lang pitched in the evening game. Cec. Brown (p) and Piele (c) were the Camp star battery.

The girls' game was an interesting 5-3 affair between two Toronto commercial teams.

Sgt. Don Hudson of Toronto showed the public the kind of entertainment the boys get, with a 'twist vaudeville show starring the female sex.

About 5,000 people, including the Camp population, attended.

New Pastor Shot Down By German Ace In Great War

Rev. Henry Cotton, new pastor of Trinity United church, arrived in Newmarket yesterday. He will commence his duties at the beginning of August.

Mr. Cotton was ordained in Woodstock, Ont., in 1920. He enlisted when a student in McGill University early in the first Great War as a private in the Canadian infantry. He had previously belonged to the Prince of Wales Own West Yorks (territorial) and the C.O.T.C. at McGill.

After 15 months in the ranks and an N.C.O. he was recommended for a commission on the field and was subsequently promoted to the rank of captain. He attended the Canadian military school at Crowborough, England, and returning to his battalion was only with them one month when he volunteered for service with the Royal Flying Corps.

After training at Reading and at a flying school in Scotland he was seconded to No. 25 Squadron R.F.C. He was shot down on his seventh day in France by a famous German war ace, but fortunately crashed on Vinny Ridge just inside the British lines. He was injured and was shot down again after a dog fight at 15,000 feet on his 40th raid over the German lines and was made a prisoner of war. For nearly two years he was in various German prison camps. He was mentioned in despatches for shooting down German "planes."

Finishing his studies after the war he graduated in theology from Victoria College and in social service from Toronto University. He was elected president of Hamilton Conference in May, 1940. He has been a delegate at two General Councils and has been a member of the executive of the General Council of the United Church of Canada. Since ordination he has served in parishes at Copetown, Cainsville, Brantford, Stoney Creek and Fort Erie.

At the request of the War Service Committee of the United Church of Canada and the principal chaplain, R.C.A.F., he accepted an appointment as chaplain in the R.C.A.F. in the present war. He (page 8, col. 7)

Never Had Club Turn Down Needy, Says Mayor and M.D.

NEW OFFICERS INSTALLED, YEAR REVIEWED, AT KESWICK

Singular tribute was paid to the Newmarket Lions club by Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales at the club's annual ladies' night at the Royal Simcoe, Keswick, last Thursday evening.

Mayor Dales singled out W. M. Cockburn, the retiring president, whom he called a "great public citizen," and H. E. Lambert, prominent in the club, as a person always ready to shoulder community responsibilities.

"The success and advance of Newmarket, and its progressive spirit, are due to the men who are the backbone of this club," said Dr. Dales.

Speaking of the Lions club's social service work, Dr. Dales said often he had seen a blank look of hopelessness on a mother's face when he told her that certain work beyond her purse should be done for her child.

"I would tell her to go to the Lions club, and soon she would be back to say that the Lions club would undertake it," said Dr. Dales. "I have never had the Lions club turn down any request for assistance. 'When you have done it unto one of the least of these you have done it unto me.'"

President Frank Bowser and other new officers were installed by District Governor George Bosnell of Toronto. Mrs. Bosnell was a guest.

Edwin R. Kingsley, past international president, and Mrs. Kingsley, of Parkersburg, West Virginia, Bruce Malcolm, Toronto, Ontario and Quebec district organizer of Lions International, and Dr. and Mrs. Dales were other head table guests.

Thirty-five members and 75 guests were present for the dinner meeting.

Men Offer Their Holidays To Hard-Pressed Farmers

NEWMARKET EMPLOYER RELEASES MAN A DAY FOR FARM WORK

With the critical shortage of farm help, a number of the employees from the Davis Leather Co. are helping out farmers of the district this week when they are having their holidays.

An employer in town is releasing one or two men a day at present to help farmers up against it for help. The other evening practically his entire staff went out after supper and collected a field of hay for a Huron St. farmer.

W. M. Cockburn, agricultural representative, states that the police of North York township volunteered to put notices in every farmer's mail box advising those up against it for help to call the police office. The boys in blue in turn contacted the Ontario Farm Service Force office in Toronto, where business men, clerks, boys, factory hands, etc., with farm experience, are registered for odd afternoons, some for occasional days and others for their holidays.

Similar arrangements are being made by the councils of Richmond Hill and Aurora, while in Newmarket the office of the agricultural representative is being used in some cases, but many are getting in touch directly with farmers they know who need help.

Employees of the Davis Leather Co. are enjoying a week's holidays with pay this week.

GRAY DEFEATS GRAY IN FISHING CONTEST

They are visiting Mrs. Ough, Arthur Ough and other friends in Newmarket.

JOB SEEKS MAN WITH STRONG ARM, TRUE EYE

Wanted . . . one pitcher. Anyone answering to this description, kindly get in touch with Benny Wilson, manager of the Specialty hardball team.

That was the cry emanating from the Specialty bench on Thursday night, as their team went down to defeat before the superior batting of the Davis Leather team. The final score was 20-8.

This was the fifth straight defeat for the Specialty team. Lack of pitching strength has been the cause of most of their trouble. The latest report from the league executive is that something will be done about strengthening the Specialty team in the pitching department. At the present time they are looking around the camp to see if perhaps they have an old rusty arm not in use.

There is not a great deal about the game itself. It was just a case of rounding the bases as far as the tannery players were concerned. They teed off on three Specialty pitchers, Smith, Wilson and Hilton, and the whole three suffered in the tannery's 23-hit assault.

Bill Haskett led the Davis team with a perfect night at bat, five to five. Wright, Geo. Haskett, Peters and Gibney contributed

Comfort In Religion, R.C.A.F. Hero Wrote, Honored In Service

Letters From George Germain To His Pastor Tell Of Place Home Church Had In His Life

A memorial service was held in the Christian-Congregational church on Sunday evening in honor of Sgt.-Observer George Germain, who was killed on active service with the R.C.A.F. overseas last week. There were many beautiful floral tributes.

Sgt. Germain was given a military funeral in England on Saturday afternoon.

The service was conducted by Rev. Arthur Greer, assisted by Rev. A. E. Runcelle, D.D., of Trinity United church.

Mr. Greer chose as his text St. John 15: 13, "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends."

"My idea of fitness tells me that this is not so much an occasion for sermonizing as for speaking simple words of deep, sincere tribute to a boy who has done the noblest thing that a man can possibly do—lay down his life for his friends," said Mr. Greer.

"Sgt.-Observer George Germain has joined the vast ranks of these noble men, and of him Jesus says that he has done the finest thing he could do—he has proven his love for home and kindred and friends in laying down his life for them."

"Christ, the Master, laid down his life for men. And if George Germain were my son I would take the greatest comfort from this fact, that he had done as his Master did."

"It is eminently fitting that we should honor George Germain in this church. He belonged here and was one of those who not only belonged, but worshipped—both in the church and the Sunday-school.

"When he went far from home the church retained its warm place in his heart. I quote from two letters I have had in the past few months from him."

"Altogether, we live a surprisingly normal life here, but unfortunately, Sunday is just another day. The fact that one does not attend church doesn't necessarily mean that you can't live a Christian life, but I have lived long enough to realize that attending church makes it a lot easier."

"And from a later letter: 'I consider myself somewhat like Caesar of old, neither very good nor very bad,' but I have never been any place yet where I was ashamed to own my God. Some of the lads find solace in a crucifix, but I have a picture of the interior of the Christian church taken on children's day. I'm not the least bit superstitious, but when the going gets tough, I get out this picture and sing 'The Blessed Hour of Prayer'."

"George's name will go on the honor roll of the country, on the honor roll of his school, his town and his church, so that his name and sacrifice will ever be remembered and we shall keep in mind what we owe him, for in the words of Prime Minister Churchill, 'Never have so many owed so much to so few.'"

Fliers "Force-Land" In Soft Grain Field At Holt

FIND THEMSELVES BESIDE FARM OF UNCLE OF A CLASSMATE

Two fliers flying from Woodstock to Camp Borden, on Saturday, lost their course, and, believing the plane to be very low in gasoline, were forced to make a landing in Angus Harrison's oat field, opposite R. F. Cunningham's, at Holt.

Although the landing was made safely, the ground was too soft for them to take off again. A crew from Camp Borden was called to dismantle the plane, which was taken away by truck. The pilots, who were due to receive their wings in about three weeks, were in the same class as Harold Rutledge, Newmarket, who is a nephew of Mr. Cunningham.

WILL MEET AT SHARON

Jap Population Density Called A World Problem

POST-WAR WORLD DISCUSSED AT SIX-DAY FRIENDS MEETING

The six-day program of the Gonesee and Canada yearly meetings of the Religious Society of Friends came to a conclusion at Pickering College at noon yesterday.

Distinguished Quakers from the United States took part in the meetings.

"A British-American league to police the world would be an invitation to the colored races to combine against us," said E. Raymond Wilson, of the American Friends Service Committee, giving the Sunderland P. Gardner lecture on Sunday evening.

Mr. Wilson spoke on the subject, "Preparation Now for a Durable Peace for the World of Tomorrow."

Speaking on racial and population problems, he said: "If you put all Europeans, all Africans and all Asians into the United States, you still wouldn't have the density of population you have in Japan."

Mr. Wilson said that the average farm in Japan is two and a half acres in extent. "The world has a long way to go to achieve equality of opportunity."

Mr. Wilson said that the United States has two racial problems, the Japanese and the colored. He spoke of a district in the United States where only five out of 20,000 Negroes had been allowed to vote.

A well-known market gardener, E. F. Streeter has an exceptionally early garden this year. On June 13 Mr. Streeter had cucumbers out of his garden, on the 20th head lettuce, on the 24th green peas and on the 27th green peas and raspberries.

A LONG WAY DOWN

John West earned a sum of money on Saturday morning by removing a hook from a pike caught the previous evening at Lake Simcoe by R. C. Morrison, clothing merchant.

The hook wasn't left in the fish just as an excuse for taking it down to show off. Dr. L. W. Dales who was also casting, said that if the pike had swallowed the hook any farther it would have been landed tail first.

Fortunately the pike wasn't much over two feet long.

MANY-TOWERED NEWMARKET

Speaking in Trinity United church, Rev. R. R. McMath suggested that ten churches were too many for a town of 4,000 population. It would seem true, and yet the question arises as to which are the unnecessary churches. The smaller churches thrive, we think, because they offer something which the larger churches either do not or cannot offer. It is perhaps a greater interest in the individual, or a more vital religion, or a greater demand, both financial and moral, on the individual. Whatever the secret, if a small church, competing with larger and much more firmly established churches, can find the financial support it needs, that is evidence that there is need and place for it in the community.

MUSCULAR PATRIOTISM

How many town people are lending a hand on a neighboring farm on their half day off? It is an easy way to serve. The agricultural representative's office will find a place for any able-bodied person to spend his spare time to good advantage.

WORRYING

One of our university teachers used to go around with a worried expression on his face. His conversation was about the League of Nations and international affairs, although he taught modern languages. "Why do you worry about the League of Nations?" a friend of ours once asked him. "I'm the worrying kind," the professor replied, "and I long ago decided that if I am going to worry anyway I might as well worry about something worthwhile."

His worrying wasn't wasted. Nor was the worrying and the studying about the League of Nations and international peace which we all did in the years between the two wars wasted. It is popular now to laugh at the ideas of those years and its "pacifists," but it is becoming evident that the principal ideas of those years are going to dominate the coming peace. You can't laugh away 20 years of lecturing and study by Lord Cecil and Sir Norman Angell and millions of common people throughout the world.

When Vice-President Henry Wallace and other influential voices declare that there must be a just peace and no vindictive action against enemy peoples they are speaking for 20 years of thinking on the part of the people of the world, and the people of northern York county, and theirs are the voices that are likely to prevail.

It is popular now to laugh at Ramsay MacDonald, Stanley Baldwin, Herbert Hoover and his predecessors because they, to some extent, disarmed their countries. It is to be remembered that they were, though haltingly, carrying out solemn undertakings to disarm, and it will be because they, to some extent, did so that new disarmament agreements after this war will have a chance of success. The people of the world will have two courses, to disarm and devote their energies to producing food, clothing, houses, or to keep themselves armed, pay onerous arms taxes and pave the way for another war.

NO HARM ASKING

Another municipality, the town of Acton, has asked the Ontario liquor control board to close beverage rooms within that town's boundaries at 11 p.m. on Saturdays and 10 p.m. on other days. The board has not yet granted any of the numerous similar requests.

BETTER LUCK NEXT TIME

Canada is 75 years old. The U.S. civil war, with its armies, was a factor in inducing Canada's provinces to unite. The first world war marked Canada's 50th birthday and now the second world war ruins her 75th. Newmarket made the best of the occasion, converting Dominion day into "Army" day.

A WHIFF OF WAR

It was inevitable that Canada's huge expenditures for war should eventually be brought home to the average person. After Sept. 1, when the increased deductions are made from wages and salaries, there will be less persons saying "that Canada's war contribution is negligible. Nor will the end of the war necessarily mean any great easing of the taxation burden, for, unfortunately, Canadians are "paying as they go" only about 50 percent of the cost of the war and government.

WHAT OTHERS THINK

STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE

(Fort Erie Times-Review)

This is the season when the perennial discussion breaks out about the proper way to make strawberry shortcake. There are two sharply divided schools of thought on the topic. One advocates the sponge or pound-cake method, while the other champions the use of crisp-crust pastry.

One of the latter persuasion insists that strawberry shortcake should be "a sandwich, as it were, of ripe berries hiding their blushing beauty between layers of crisp pie crust." His opponents favor a more spongy cake which more readily absorbs the juice from the layers of fruit.

One Kentucky country editor sums up the case for his side in these words, "The restaurateurs who dish up some dark and sad looking berries on a square of wet and sad tasting cake should meet the fate of folks who sweeten cornbread. They should be banished 'north of the river' and be forced to eat cold bread and never see a hot biscuit."

The matter is still further complicated by the question of whether whipped cream should be used to top off strawberry shortcake. Some argue that such is a desecration and nothing but rich table cream should be added. Others favor table cream as well as a generous topping of whipped cream.

Of course these fine points are not debated in Europe at this time. There the whole subject is regarded as a dead issue.

EMERGENCIES

By Isabel Inglis Colville

The word emergency, in these troubled times, has a much more definite meaning than it had before the war days. A good many of us have lived our lives till now with few, if any, emergencies to meet.

Very minor injuries have called for a very limited amount of knowledge and experience in first aid work, but now, with who knows what before us, it behooves us to brush up what knowledge we have and set about acquiring more, so it was with great pleasure and expectation, that we welcomed Mrs. Rogers of Sharon to our June Institute Meeting, for her talk was on first aid in emergencies.

She began her talk by analyzing the reaction of most people in an emergency—that is, fear, and then spoke of the psychology of fear, the way it affects different people, and what will overcome it.

She said that with herself, anger lifted her above fear. She quoted an instance. At one time she was left, in her superior's absence, in charge of a hospital. There had been, that summer, a number of torrential rains as accompaniments to thunder storms—result—motor accidents.

She hoped and prayed that this Sunday would be different, but no, the usual storm, the inevitable accident. When she saw the victims being brought into the hospital, her tummy turned over and her knees shook.

However, she telephoned and directed, and felt she wasn't doing too badly, but always afraid she wouldn't do ALL she could. However, aid came unexpectedly. A man who had brought the victims in kept talking and complaining loudly, that everything wasn't being done.

It made Mrs. Rogers so angry at last that she ordered him to "sit down and shut up." To her astonishment he did just that, and she had conquered him, and herself.

The man had organized the bringing of victims, and rendered first aid admirably, but his work done, he developed a sort of hysteria—and got the right treatment.

We were told there were three

PATRIOTIC CELEBRATION

By GOLDEN GLOW

Last Monday afternoon being the tenth anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Basil Watson's marriage, a merry party of Mrs. Watson's friends were entertained at their home at Valcoose Kennels on Corham St. The party was held in their delightful garden amid the ideal surroundings, under the shade of the beautiful trees on the estate.

A rocky way with steps leading down through an archway to the pool and a sunken circular lawn were gay with flowers, especially roses and lilies and one huge bed of ferns. It made a wonderful setting for the tea-tables.

The centre table was quite patriotic, having for a centrepiece, besides a floral bouquet in red, white and blue, a bull-dog standing on the Union Jack and a bust of Winston Churchill, which had been given Mr. Watson for a gift on "Father's Day."

Tea was served at little round tables under the trees, grouped round the centre table and the red white and blue was carried out in all the decorations. The highlight of the afternoon was when the hostess led their beautiful huge sheep-dog, Alex, the Great Dane, the stone steps with a little collection-box, in the shape of a barrel, also done up in red, white and blue, strapped on his back, and "Alex" stopped at each table for a contribution to the soldiers' comforts fund.

It was a unique conclusion to a very pleasant afternoon amid such delightful surroundings, and the guests rather envied their home there, boarding while their masters are on holidays, when it came time to leave for home.

Many were the compliments Mr. and Mrs. Watson received for their charming hospitality.

Rev. Hugh Shannon performed the ceremony. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white crepe gown falling into a train, with full-length veil caught to her hair by a halo of "ditty bags" with comforts for sailors.

Mrs. Jean Gow, president of the Toronto branch of the Navy League, reports that the sailors want the comics most of all. They want picture magazines, good fiction, western and mystery books.

She told of a corvette that put to sea plentifully stocked with newspapers and magazines. It found a wrecked merchant vessel. The survivors were taken aboard, and as there were not too many blankets available a member of the corvette's crew hit on the idea of keeping the survivors warm with the magazines and newspapers.

Farm Commando Brigades are springing up in Chambers of Commerce, Boards of Trade, Service Clubs and Churches all over Ontario—bringing together townsmen who are willing to make a direct, patriotic contribution to the War Effort and gain the good-will of neighboring farmers at the same time.

If there is no Farm Commando Brigade forming in your locality, take it up with your Service Club, Board of Trade, Chamber of Commerce or Church Executive and get your local Brigade started at once.

The need for a great emergency reserve of Farm Commandos is urgent. The "stake" is tremendous. Ontario farmers must have every possible man-hour of labour during harvesting to prevent irreparable loss of foods to the Allied War Effort and to Canada herself.

Your help is needed—NOW. Volunteer in The Farm Commando Brigade and be ready to help if harvest emergencies arise.

ECHOES FROM CANADA'S WARTIME PARLIAMENT

By GORDON GRAYDON

These are serious days. Yet in the midst of our dangers parliament spends not just a day but actually weeks debating the government's legislation. It is pouring it to supplement fully a program of total war. Our duty, as I see it, is to waste no further time talking, and get on with the job. Speeches have their place, and an important one in legislative deliberations, but somehow they seem out of line with the times where an issue like this is involved. The people voted unmistakably in favor of freeing the government's hands, so let parliament carry out that mandate without a prolonged debate which in its progress has served to emphasize our national differences.

When Hon. James L. Isley, that tall, blonde and youthful minister of finance, brought down his budget, his feelings over the gravity of our international position fairly oozed out of him at every turn. You knew he wasn't putting on a display. His words dripped with concern. After a two-hour speech, laden with facts and figures, and heavy taxation proposals, he ended with this: "Do Canadians realize how critical is our situation at this moment in Russia, in China, and in the Middle East, and how critical it may be elsewhere before long?" I believe that they do and that their individual desires for gain, ease and advantage are submerged in this nation's will to win. That was a clear challenge, and to survive we must as individuals and as

The new income tax proposals contain a very sensible change from former policies. Allowance is now to be made for certain medical, hospital and nursing expenses incurred by the person taxed, if such expenses are over a certain percentage of the income. This has been a serious matter for many people in the past who have had to spend almost every cent they made on such expenses and still had to pay taxes on the money they were obliged to so expend.

There are four M.P.'s who will not be as heavily hit by the new taxes as some others. The more children a taxpayer has, the less tax he pays, and this is where John Blackmore, leader of the

The American congress has recently raised the pay of its armed forces. No doubt our government is giving the subject serious consideration as well. If cash pay increases are not thought advisable, it is to be hoped that at least an additional "nest-egg" will be put aside for the day when they come back. In the meantime the dependents of those on active service ought, in my opinion, to have their allowances raised commensurate with the increased cost of living.

MOVIES

Melodrama and comedy are skillfully blended in Ernst Lubitsch's newest film production, "To Be or Not To Be," with Jack Benny and the late Carole Lombard in the top stellar roles. This picture was Miss Lombard's last Hollywood-made film before her untimely death.

The setting of "To Be or Not To Be" is Warsaw at the time of the German invasion, and the chief characters are a bunch of "ham" actors of the Teatr Polski, who are forced to give up their theatrical roles for real life ones that are far more exciting than any they have ever played in the theatre.

The story reaches a high point of dramatic action when the "ham" actors—Jack Benny, Carole Lombard, Lionel Atwill, Felix Bressart, Tom Dugan, Charles Halton and George Lynn—become involved with the invaders and find themselves impersonating every important Nazi figure from Hitler on down. After a series of startling complications, the members of the troupe are delivered out of Poland into England, snatched from the very jaws of the Gestapo.

Patrons of the Strand theatre will have a hilarious session of first class when they see "My Favorite Blonde," the season's speediest cops-and-robbers comedy, with Bob Hope, Madeleine Carroll and Percy the Penguin.

According to all reports, the teaming of Hope and Carroll was an inspiration. Listeners on Hope's radio hour are thoroughly familiar with his expressions of unbounded admiration for the beautiful Madeleine. He's been calling her "my favorite blonde" on the air for years but nobody seemed to hit on the obvious and cast them together in a picture until Paramount bought a story called "Snowball in Hell," a rollicking yarn of a ham vaudeville who gets mixed up with Nazi spies.

The story sends the Hope-Carroll-Percy combination on a thrilling cross-country race that starts in New York and ends in Hollywood. Before it's over Hope is wanted for murder, robbery, misrepresentation and a flock of other crimes, including evading arrest.

"A Gentleman After Dark," dramatic adaptation of Richard Washburn Child's magazine story, opens at the Strand theatre Wednesday. Boasting such outstanding players as Brian Donlevy, Miriam Hopkins and Preston Foster, the picture presents Donlevy in a sympathetic role for a change, with excellent results. Cast as a jewel thief, Donlevy steals a $50,000 bracelet, and in the ensuing chase and battle of wits, this dramatic hit reaches a new high.

BRITAIN JUST SAME AS EVER, WRITES M.D.

Letters received by Newmarket Veterans' Association include one from Capt. J. Gordon Cook, under date of May 17. He writes: "Your most welcome and surprising gift arrived last week and already has helped to assuage the hunger pangs on one occasion. It can assure you that your thoughtful-ness is most highly appreciated. However, I don't feel the least bit deserving when I think of what the word 'war' implies to you, as compared to my experience of it to date. I do get a great deal of satisfaction out of the knowledge that it is the Newmarket Veterans that have remembered me, as someone who it makes me feel more a part of that great little town than ever. 'I'm sure that many of you are thrilled that the successor to your own battalion—the Queen's Yorks—have finally been given their chance. Somewhere, I wish I were back with them, although it would have to be a strong pull to get me away from the R.C.D.'s—even if a horse tradition is a little obsolete. 'I don't suppose any of you would see many changes over here. In spite of the appalling havoc created by the blitz in certain towns—every little town and village have some piles of rubble to which the local citizens proudly point—the damage, on the whole, is rarely noticeable. I suppose the black-out is stricter than in your day, and certainly most people object more to it than the blitz. There are still, however, the same pubs, the same dance-decked buses, the same little trains, the same scattering of Canadian soldiers from Land's End to John o' Groats, the same groups of Surrey's wishing that they had the Canadians' pay, the same Sussex Downs, the same chimney-pots and probably the same food (in this I was have invented the N.A.A.F.I. saw have invented the really is something!) ago and that really has been fairly regular. So far life has been rather pleasant except for the inevitable homesickness and the occasional 'alert.' I have thoroughly enjoyed sightseeing although I'd gladly forego more of it if I could get a glimpse of Fairy Lake or even the magnificent town hall. My thanks again for the calorie and vitamin contribution and my sincerest regards to you all."

Tpr. R. H. McCannan writes (May 17) to thank the Newmarket Veterans for a "lovely parcel of canned goods." "I would like to take this opportunity to compliment your wonderful organization on the splendid part you are playing at home, namely, keeping the boys happy. Thanks a million for the lovely parcel and let's hope that we will be home soon."

Tpr. N. J. Gardner (May 18) writes: "I received your parcel yesterday and boy was I ever glad to get it. The canned goods sure are good after you spend a time over here. I never will be able to thank you for what you are all doing. I do not like this country over here, with we could see over here. I sure have been busy. I drive an armored car and do I ever like it. How are things in Newmarket? Just the same? But I would like to be back there. Thank Ang West for the paper, will you, and tell him I will write him soon."

What A Job They'll Have To Decide Between Disney's 'Dumbo' and Kipling's 'Jumbo'—Both in Technicolor

In spite of difficulties 47 puzzlers came through with correct answers to last week's scrambled words, and so it was necessary to draw the winners of the five double passes to the Strand theatre.

T. F. Doyle, Main St. merchant, did the honors with the following result: Mrs. S. J. Freshwater, R. R. 3, Newmarket (c/o Mrs. Malcolm), Miss Marie Barker, 104 Prospect St., Newmarket, Mrs. Robert Stickwood, Sharon, Miss Dorothy Lee, Newmarket, and Mrs. W. C. Blight, 48 Millard Ave., Newmarket.

These winners may pick up their passes at the Strand to see, on Tuesday, July 7, "My Favorite Blonde" and "Cadet Girl," or, on Thursday, July 9, "A Gentleman After Dark" and "The Shanghai Gesture" (billed as changed since last week).

Correct answers to last week's contest were: reconituted, permanent, information, country, communicate, cafeteria, thoroughly, immediately, patronage, experienced.

This Week's Contest

This week's contest is not easy and those who qualify for the five double passes will have earned their way. The choice is between Tuesday, July 14, Walt Disney's "Dumbo" in technicolor and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Ruth Warrick and Akim Tamiroff in "The Corsican Brothers."

Miss Edith Widdifield, a bride-to-be of July, was the recipient of a red-and-white kitchen shower on Friday night when about 30 friends gathered at the home of Miss Sadie Burrows.

The room was tastefully decorated in pink and white. An entertaining evening was spent in games, with the feature of the evening being a mock wedding at which Mrs. Basil Watson portrayed a parson, Mrs. John Rutledge the bride, Mrs. R. C. Morrison the groom, Miss Dora Doan, the flower-girl, and Miss Viola Rutledge, the ring-bearer, bringing in the ring (a curtain ring) on a large cushion.

A delightful luncheon was served the guests. Miss Elsie McCann was co-hostess of the shower.

ELMER CUNNINGHAM WEDS TORONTO GIRL

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Saturday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Edwards, Toronto, when their second daughter, Norma Ruth, became the bride of Mr. Elmer Bryson Cunningham, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Cunningham of Newmarket.

The bride, given in marriage by her mother, was gownned in white organza over white satin and wore a corsage of pink roses and baby's breath.

The couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. J. French. Mrs. French was gownned in blue lace and wore a corsage of yellow roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held, the bride's mother receiving in a mauve lace dress with corsage of red roses and baby's breath, assisted by the groom's mother in a blue sheer dress with corsage of pink roses. A dainty lunch was served.

For going away the bride wore an Alice blue suit with white hat and accessories. On their return they will live in Toronto.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Russell Butler of Thornton, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Spry of Barrie, Mrs. Wm. Lennox of Barrie, and Capt. and Mrs. N. N. Brimston of Kingston.

POT POURRI

By GOLDEN GLOW

And my heading, Pot Pourri, is certainly appropriate this time, for once again I have received a request for making a rose jar, or "Pot Pourri" as the French call it. Literally, a pot of many sweet-smelling ingredients, which all combined emit such a wonderful fragrance.

Our ancestors, especially the old-time "gentlewomen," appreciated it and we somehow associate it with black silk dresses, silk stiffs enough to stand alone fairly, lace caps and a fluffy fichu—in fact with "lavender and old lace." And if you were fortunate enough to have an aunt or a grandmother who loved such things, you still keep her memory alive every time you get a whiff of attar of roses, for it invariably recalls her presence. It is a sweet memory, we all will admit!

I have been asked so often in the years since I wrote these Golden Glow articles for the recipe and method of making Pot Pourri, and I am always delighted to respond. What is more delightful than entering a room where a housewife has opened her rose jar to freshen up her home after cooking a meal—it has a soothing effect as well as one that gives pleasure. You feel that in this atmosphere you can relax and enjoy your visit!

Of course, rose leaves are the foundation of every rose jar, but there are various ways of preparing them. Some use dried, sweet-scented geranium leaves as well, and lavender flowers, and heliotrope and bergamot—in fact, any pleasant smelling flower or plant or, indeed, herb. But they must all be thoroughly dried. I have tried several ways of drying them but I have concluded that by far the easiest way is to spread them on a piece of plain paper in your spare bedroom where they can be entirely out of everybody's way. I find pinning them to the clothesline out in the garden is not a bad one, but, alas, they were too tempting and I found they were being used as punching-bags every time the family went past.

Be sure and gather the roses on a dry day after the dew has gone. Some people do not wait to dry them but put them straight into a jar in thin layers, with salt between, till the jar is filled. It is a good and easy way. Put in any sweet smelling leaves, Sweet Mary, as we used to call it, Rosemary, lavender, etc., add three or four ounces of bay salt to one ounce each of nutmeg, cinnamon and cloves. Keep closely covered except when you want to perfume a room.

Here is another recipe—an old, old one, but it does sound intriguing. It is given in ounces and drachms (a drachm is 1/8 of an ounce in "apothecaries' weight"). Don't you love the old word, apothecary shop, for our more prosaic drug store. Here is the recipe: rose leaves, 25 oz., lavender flowers, 15 oz., orris root (peru), 20 oz., white clove (peru), 20 oz., nutmeg, 5 oz., cinnamon, 5 oz., salt, 5 oz., oil of bergamot, 2 dr., oil of lemon, 2 1/2 dr., oil of rose geranium, 1 1/2 dr., oil of French lavender, 1 1/2 dr., coumarin, 1 dr., vanilla, 1 dr. Mix with the rose leaves the other ingredients and keep in a pot pourri jar.

NEWMARKET HIGH TEACHERS WED

A pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Patterson, on Friday, when their youngest daughter, Evelyn Irene Patterson, became the bride of Harold Wilson Garrett, son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Garrett, Toronto.

The marriage was solemnized by Rev. R. J. Simpson, D.D. The bride was decorated with pink sprays and blue delphinium. The wedding music was played by Dr. Margaret Campbell, sister of the bride.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gownned in white Chantilly lace with fitted bodice and full gathered skirt. She wore a crown, headpiece and finger-tip veil of tulle and carried a cascade bouquet of white sweet peas and swansonia.

Miss Marion MacNaughton was maid-of-honor in a forget-me-not blue lace gown made on princess lines with matching Juliet cap and shoulder-length veil. She carried a bouquet of pink roses, cornflower and baby's breath.

Two pieces of the bride, Miss Mary West, in pale pink smocked organza, and Miss Joan Campbell in pale blue smocked organza, were junior bridesmaids, carrying nosegays of pink sweet peas and blue cornflowers. The bridegroom was attended by Lieut. Jack Patterson, brother of the bride.

The bride's mother wore powder blue crepe with matching lace collar and corsage of pink roses. The mother of the groom was attired in a navy sheer, with short jacket, and a corsage of red roses.

Following the reception, the couple left for a Great Lakes cruise, to be followed by a three-weeks vacation in Haliburton, the bride travelling in a sky-blue fitted gown with a train of pink crepe and matching hat. The couple will reside in Newmarket, where Mr. Garrett is a member of the Newmarket high school staff. The bride was a member of the same staff.

gradents and keep in a pot pourri jar.

Isn't that the quaintest, old-time recipe you ever saw, and I can assure you it is splendid. And here is another equally as good. Mix one pound of rose leaves with a half pound of sandalwood and one quarter ounce of attar of roses (only I'm afraid attar of roses is one of the unattainable things now, since war has devastated the wonderful rose gardens of the far east, where attar of roses was made). Fill little gauze bags for your drawers or put in a pot pourri jar.

Here is one that takes ten days, but it is worth all the trouble. Keep your jar handy and as you get the rose leaves arrange them in layers with salt between. Allow to stand for ten days stirring occasionally. Now prepare, coarsely ground, the following spices: one-half ounce each of allspice, cloves, cinnamon, half a grated nutmeg and one-quarter ounce of mace. Also one-quarter pound of dried lavender flowers and one full ounce of powdered orris root. Mix spices together and after the ten days put the mixture alternately with the rose leaves into their permanent rose jars. In the different jars add about ten drops of different perfumes—over all of your favorite scents, toilet water, eau-de-cologne or Florida water, etc., and stir from time to time. You leave the jar open for a few minutes when you want your room perfumed.

Here is one with dried rose leaves. When you have dried the leaves, add about one cup of dried lavender flowers and any sweet-smelling flowers you wish. Sprinkle with powdered spices, add about 20 drops of oil of lavender, and of oil of cloves, a few drops of oil of cinnamon and a drop or two of oil of musk. You can procure these at any good drug store. You may add some powdered dried orange rind or lemon peel as well. Put into a covered jar and leave for a month, then uncover when needed for fragrance in your rooms. I hope this will help.

Now for a word or two on other subjects. I can't do this without reference to our feathered friends. We have a most lovely bird now in our neighborhood, pure gold, a good-sized bird, and we think it may be the bird that calls "Peter, Peter" all the summer. However, up to now, it sings most beautifully. Last summer we were all agog to know what it really was. Maybe we'll find out this year. And the Flicker, with its polka-dot spots, visited my neighbor's drink-fountain and she had a good look at it, which recalled my experience at Fort Boileau when we were camping there once. I slept in the car and every morning I woke early to watch the Flickers—they were feeding a young family in a hole in a tree right beside the car and I could watch unabashed. It was thrilling, exciting, and I shall never forget it. And I want to say that it would hardly be thrilling, the experience of people at Vancouver and Lulu Island at the mouth of the Fraser River when three barrage balloons broke loose from their moorings in a strong wind and landed on a wildly across to B.C., putting power lines out of commission, knocking out a radio station and clanking their chains across the roofs of the houses of the sleeping inhabitants at three o'clock in the morning. No wonder they thought the Japs were there—and parachute troops. It must have been a hateful experience and I hope they can laugh about it now! But—well—"one never knows."

And as a last thought—what about the two old ladies in England who want to do their bit towards winning the war—used string is saved and gathered up and taken to their home, where they untie all the knots and make it useable again. You know there is a shortage of twine and string over there and that is their war effort—salvage all the string.

DOWN THE CENTRE

Bob Benville, now an acting petty officer with the Canadian navy at Esquimalt, B.C., writes that he has recently sustained a fractured ankle but doesn't say how it occurred. "It has been surrounded with a plaster of Paris cast the past five weeks, so I'm afraid I have very little sporting news for you outside of the navy being tops in all their sporting activities. I've been getting The Era quite regularly, Ab. and have enjoyed your sport shorts. In fact that is the main feature of the paper."

Bob has made contact with the Aurora boys at Nanaimo and hopes to see them soon.

Norman Hooper, erstwhile sports writer of the Barrie Examiner, who played hockey with Barrie junior and lacrosse with Allan-ville against Aurora and other North York teams, is now a sergeant and has been transferred from the Grey Simcoes to the public relations office of the east coast command.

Other well known athletes in the services to achieve something in recent weeks are Lieut. Wilf Leach, former Orangeville junior football player, who is now with the 10th Battalion, and "Bud" Lawson, who played goal for U.C.C. against Aurora, Pickering and St. Andrew's three years ago, graduating from R.M.C., and obtaining his commission with the army.

Jimmy Cotterill, an old pal of ours from university days, has been appointed to the staff of Aurora high school and should prove a valuable addition to the coaching staff, badly in need of repair since the departure to the army of Norm Johnson. While not an athlete himself, Cotterill is a keen student of sports and two years ago we saw his public school kids from Concord practically dominate the district public school track meet.

Fred Harvey, former principal at Comiston, another member of the staff, had things humming in sports at his school, so, between the two, Aurora high athletes should be able to give a good account of themselves in district competition.

Jimmy Cummings, former Aurora junior, is versatile if nothing else. He plays senior rugby for Oak-wood, senior football for a church team, helps coach a girls' team, plays Defence League and T.H.L. hockey and has now turned up as a pretty fair soccer player in the T. and D. senior league. Because of a hockey injury we understand he is military exempt for service, though in the age category.

Jack Culverwell, the Sutton hockeyist, has turned his hand to football and is panned in the outfield for DeHavilland. Alfredd, Bob Bangay of Markham is also said to be ready for a place with the aeronauts. Jocko Collins, who played hockey for Markham juniors this year, is an outfielder partner of Culverwell, and with Jack Curtis around the team has quite a bit of North York interest.

Charlie Smith, despite the fact that he didn't ride at all in the Dufferin-Long Branch meets and very little at Thorncliffe, has still enough punch to finish among the jockeys of Canada for the Toronto spring meets. Financially, however, he will be as well off as any of them, for important events and important horses pay off in brighter colored bills.

Youth has its fling all around the sports picture. At the Aurora golf club two youngsters, "Red" Rose and "Whip" Jones, have been turning in some grand scores. President Hugh McRae has backed Rose to win the scratch championship but the lad meets tough opposition in the finals, with the veteran, Bill Boaks, getting into high gear. Jones defeated Herman Gilroy, the Newmarket mashie artist, on Sunday in a surprise upset.

In Aurora softball, Al Stephenson, in his sound debut made an impressive start and for a 17-year-old lad looked a future great. "Whitely" Warner, the former outfielder, is one of the best to show in these parts for some years, and so it goes all along the line. Among Newmarket hardballers, Gould of Davis Leather, one of the youngest players in the league, is one of the best hurlers of the circuit.

Girls' softball has completely faded out of the picture all over York county this year, except for high school leagues in the south, and the Markham-Unionville district, where a start is being made. Holiday week recalls to mind that girls' teams from nearly every centre vie for honors at Newmarket, Aurora, Maple, Mount Albert and other sports day centres.

Marj. McCannan, the Newmarket girl, in Wednesday's game at the Camp, plays for one of the best of the Sunnyside teams. Several North York girls have made good in Toronto to softball. "Lefty" Hooper of Thornhill stepped into Sunnyside about ten years ago and won herself top-notch recognition too, with her fielding and slugging. "Jimmy" Goulding of Aurora was a star with Oakwood Ladies and other Toronto teams about the same time.

As we recall it girls' softball in North York first flourished back in the early 20's around Thornhill, Richmond Hill and Maple and then spread northward. About 1924 or 25 a district league was formed, with "Doc" Boulding and "Rip" Underhill in charge at Aurora, Johnny Greebe at Richmond Hill, Tim. Eaton at Newmarket, Wilbert Cousins and Charlie Ball at Maple. The first league had Aurora, Newmarket, Richmond Hill and Thornhill. Stouffville and Maple were both in at various stages, as was Lansing, but generally they played in other circuits.

Aurora won the league on at least two or three occasions, and the southern teams dominated the other years. A close playing relationship existed between Aurora and Maple, as many of the Maple girls attended high school at Aurora. Jessie McLean, one of the greatest of district hurlers, the late Mona Cousins, the Coutts sisters and the McCuskey sisters all played both with Aurora and Maple. Research is a bit difficult but in Aurora at least the first girls' team had Ethel Hacking, Elma Atkinson, Ollie Scott, Ted Saigle, Olive Tustian, Esther Clarke, Jessie McLean, Jean Malloy, Jean and Mable Coutts as a nucleus. Then came a string of players some of whom lasted for quite a few years. Edie Scott, Ted Davis, Ruth Davis, Mary Elliott, Cora and Jimmy Goulding, Evelyn Atkinson, Rita Haight, Rita Davis, Ruth DeJaffay and others. The girls wore blue and white outfits and looked very neat.

Newmarket had a black and white ensemble and a dangerous team and won quite a few tournaments. Ella Fairley handled the pitching, and among those on the team were Ada and Edith Winkworth, Lucy Rose, Elgen Bond, Dean Giles, "Happy" Smart, V. Rutledge and from Bradford, Helen Bantam, Dode Reeves and one or two others. We've probably missed a few but that's what our memory serves up. Tim Eaton left Newmarket in 1927 and softball for girls was never the same until Alex. Webster took over a few years ago in canal-town.

Mount Albert on more than one occasion upset the tournament results with such players as Doris Stokes, Marie Draper, Terry and Hilda Davidson, the Ross sisters and others.

The Lennox picnic was always the mecca for settling the unofficial title and under a broiling civic holiday sun thousands would gather to see a program of girls' softball that lasted at Island Grove or the Point until twilight's falling light. The girls' battled for Herb's prize money but it was the thrill of competition that brought most of them there. About 1934 girls' softball had disappeared except for Maple, Fisher-ville, Thornhill and the smaller centres. Maple dominated that picture pretty well, with Irene Jones, their ace hurler, generally having too much for the opposition. Then came the admission of Newmarket, Agincourt and Unionville for several successful years. Newmarket were the last title-holders.

Apologies go to some of the girls we have mentioned. You're not as old as it might seem, for most of you were only youngsters when you were playing. In most cases we have ample protection, for the majority of the girls have long since middle-aged it and changed their name.

All-star rating we would give to the following without any consideration for the years played: catchers, Cora Goulding, Aurora, and Lil. Burns, Richmond Hill; pitchers, Irene Jones and Jessie McLean, Maple, Jimmy Goulding, Aurora, Irene Hare, Stouffville, and Ella Fairley, Newmarket; infielders, Mary Elliott, Rita Haight and Ted Davis, Aurora, "Happy" Smart, Newmarket, Helen Bantam, Bradford, Mona Cousins and "Lefty" Hooper, Thornhill, Marj. Tyndall, Richmond Hill; outfield, "Lefty" Hooper, Thornhill, Marg. McCannan, Newmarket, Ted Saigle, Aurora, V. Rutledge, Newmarket, Jean Coutts, Maple, Gladys Hooper, Thornhill.

You could get two pretty good girls' teams there. The first three outfielders named were all versatile and real stand-outs with their teams. McCannan pitched mostly and can play infield or outfield, too. Cora Goulding of Aurora and Lefty Hooper of Thornhill are the only other two we recall who could switch from one position to another with considerable success.

Toronto is one centre where girls' softball has flourished but the surprising thing to note is the number of girls who continue to play in league competition after they have married. Every senior team has one or two mammas on the team. We notice three married gals playing on this year's Barrie Royals team. We are firm in the belief that there is plenty of good playing material available throughout North York for league competition and the day is not far away when the glories of the past will live again.

The juke box and the soda fountain are probably the biggest obstacles a coach has to fight against so far as his girls are concerned these days, but we have noticed that sport like everything else moves in cycles. We look for girls' softball and lacrosse to rightfully take their place as the sports leaders of the district in the not too distant future.

POLICE COURT FINED FOR CARRYING CHILDREN OUTSIDE CAR

For having inadequate brakes on their cars Magistrate W. E. McIlveen fined eight motorists $10 and costs in Newmarket police court on Tuesday.

County Constable Ronald Watt, who has been testing the brakes on cars travelling on the main roads on the north of Newmarket, laid the eight charges against: Gordon Leitch, Zephyr, Harry Sedore, Uxbridge, Roy Turlion, R. 2, Lloydston, John W. Robinson, Schomberg, W. Wesley Pickering, Zephyr, Luther W. Beverley, Uxbridge, William Beach, Cedar Valley, and Henry McCauley, Bolton.

His worship remanded for sentence Walter Thompson, Aurora, for having inefficient brakes on his car and recommended that the defendant's license be suspended for a period of six months.

Chief Constable James Stoss, Newmarket, testified that he had found the Thompson car parked in front of a theatre on Main St., Newmarket, on June 20 and tested its brakes. He said that he had been looking for a car in connection with an accident which had occurred earlier in the day.

"I tested the brakes," stated the officer. "It had absolutely no brakes. The emergency brakes were bad also. The car was in bad repair." The officer stated that the brakes have since been repaired.

"I am letting you off light," Magistrate McIlveen told the defendant. "I am taking no consideration that you have had your brakes fixed. The car probably is in better condition now than it has ever been. It might have been a blessing in disguise that you hit a post."

His worship also fined the defendant $10 and costs of $4.25 on a charge of careless driving on Main St., Newmarket. The evidence was heard last week when Mr. Thompson pleaded guilty.

Charles Newton, Newmarket, testified that he had been standing across the street talking to a friend when the Thompson car struck the pole.

"He was going at a good speed," stated the witness. "I saw the car jump up on the curve and hit the pole. I was just across the road."

"He gave evidence in court last week that he didn't hit the pole," commented Crown Attorney N. L. Mavey, K.C.

"I saw him hit it, he stopped, got out and looked at the car, got in and drove away," replied the witness.

"You deliberately lied last week," Magistrate McIlveen told Mr. Thompson. "I am going to fine you $10 and costs."

Pleading guilty to careless driving on Main St., Newmarket, on June 16, Stanley Sutton, Newmarket, was fined $5 and costs.

"On the day in question the accused was driving a car with seven boys on it," testified County Constable Ronald Watt. "They were all on the outside of the car, on the front and back fenders. I've warned him on previous occasions."

"I am going to recommend that your license be suspended for six months," stated his worship. On being informed that the defendant had only a beginner's license, Magistrate McIlveen told him that he was recommending that he not be given a license before Nov. 1.

At the request of the defendant and with the consent of the crown, his worship remanded Percy Douglas, of Toronto, until July 13.

Mr. Orr, who was allowed bail of $500, is charged on three counts: (1) with driving in King on June 23 while intoxicated, (2) driving without due care and attention, and (3) driving without having a 1942 driver's license.

Found guilty on a charge of failing to have a driver's permit, Frank Feinberg of Bradford, was fined $10 and costs. On two other charges, speeding and failing to produce a registration certificate at the request of the police officer, he was remanded for sentence.

According to Provincial Constable Alex. Ferguson, he had stopped the defendant's car in Whitechurch and the defendant had refused to give his name and address. Upon investigating, the officer stated, he learned that Mr. Fell lived in Toronto.

The officer went on to say that at a later date he stopped the car and on this occasion Mr. Fell failed to produce either a registration certificate or driver's license. The officer stated that the defendant produced his registration certificate later.

In his defence Mr. Fell explained that he had given his address in care of his employer at Bradford. He stated that he had been in there only a short time, he had not learned the correct spelling of his employer's name.

"Did you show the officer your driver's license?" the magistrate asked Mr. Fell. The latter replied that he had not.

"Didn't you know that you couldn't drive without one?" The defendant replied that he didn't know.

As the injured party is still in the hospital and will be for some time, his worship, at the request of the crown remanded Gordon Hosie, Toronto, until Sept. 29. The latter is charged with careless driving and with dangerous driving in Aurora on April 8.

Another charge of careless driving, against Mike Keranda, Toronto, was remanded for sentence.

For entering a store, William Orr, Brampton, was fined $2 and costs. A fine of $3 and costs was imposed on Wilfred Atkinson, Toronto, for passing a red light on Yonge St.

There were 37 speed cases presented in police court on Tuesday. Motorists were fined $25 and costs, 10 fined $15 and costs. Six of the motorists were fined on Yonge St., 12 in Aurora, 12 in Cambridge, and three in Newmarket.

Those fined $25 and costs were John White, Orillia, and Louis Rosenborg, Toronto, both fined by Provincial Constable Alex. Ferguson travelling at 55 miles an hour on Yonge St.

HE WRITES FOR THIS NEWSPAPER

(The current issue of "Canadian Business" carries this interesting article about the writer of the column, "Echoes from Canada's Past," appearing weekly in The Era and Express.)

To describe Gordon Graydon as the organizer of the Conservative party is perhaps to get off to a bad start. He's in the position of the fellow who was laughed at when he sat down at the piano. It turned out, however, that he could play, after all. Perhaps Gordon can ultimately make the Conservative party swing into a victory march.

Gordon was born in 1886, on his father's dairy farm in Chinguacousy township. He travelled two miles to school No. 6 by dog sled in winter, and went to his first political meeting when he was 12. He's been going to them ever since.

There were scholarships, and so on, and during this part of his life he worked on the farm, and made his first political speech in 1923 to a farm audience at Campbell's Cross, Ont.

In 1929 he was elected secretary of the Peel County Conservative Association, and three years later became president. The real fight began when he decided to contest Peel in the 1935 federal election.

He had married a young lady of Liberal and Tory blood, and they had settled down in a workingman's section of the town of Brampton. Politically, that was sound.

Sound too was the interest and solicitude with which he told everybody he was going to make more calls and fewer speeches. No one knows how many speeches he gave, but he made 6,712 calls.

Those calls, and the work and from a field of four he emerged with a majority of 170. He was the second youngest Conservative elected in 1935, and was re-elected with 548 majority, and established a new record for total votes polled by any candidate in Peel county since Confederation.

Those who dabble in numerology will be interested to learn that 23 is his lucky number. He left the farm and moved to Brampton, July 23, 1925. He married July 23, 1927. He was elected president of the Ontario Junior Conservatives Jan. 23, 1931, re-elected Feb. 23, 1935. Nomination for parliament was March 23, 1935, and he took over his duties as national chairman, Conservative party, May 23, 1935. He commenced his national survey June 23, 1941.

On Oct. 21, 1939, he tried to enlist and was turned down.

Some time ago, he set up at his own expense the Peel County board, an organization of 60 people who collect information relating to Peel county boys on active service. Nearly 900 cards are now in the office.

Brampton, which is Peel's county town, Gordon thinks it will be a great source of information about the Peel county war effort.

In 1938 Gordon was chosen by Viscount Bennett as secretary of the Conservative national convention, and in 1941 he was given the position of national chairman of the party, with headquarters outside the house. In plain truth, the Tories themselves were tired of those elderly minds in elderly bodies who had been trying to run the Conservative party.

Gordon's ready smile, his hearty personality, and his youthful outlook, were like a cool breeze off the lake to the Tories.

He started out at once to make Canada his political oyster. He covered the dominion twice, making an inventory of the party's position, and surveying the various provinces. He held 217 meetings, he cocked an eye on this and that, and came back feeling pretty good about things. It is said that Gordon's walking into the back kitchens and the barnyards of the back concessions was the best thing that the Tory party has done for a long time. In any case, it certainly looks like Gordon to drop in at milking time and talk to the farmers, (a) to make friends, and (b) to win possible votes, just by passing the time of day.

The Conservative party party may regard him as a bit of a radical, but a more loyal Conservative does not exist. Gordon's chief trouble is that some of his co-workers are rather of the old school.

One story is told about his voyage of discovery, to see if there were any Tories in the British Columbia. In some village up the Cariboo Trail an old man presided at a meeting. He was flustered by the Gordon, and when the time came he said with a not a little emotion: "Let us now sing 'God Save the Queen.'" He had not presided at a meeting since Queen Victoria was on the throne.

In the house, Gordon speaks in a rather high-pitched tone of voice, which is not always effective. When he speaks, he is usually ill-mannered about American fruits and vegetables coming in early and spoiling the markets for Peel county truck gardeners and orchardists. He makes a good deal of his bit about the government, but never meanly, or viciously. There isn't any vindictiveness in Gordon Graydon.

Many persons feel that he will be more effective as an organizer than as a politician. But he has political talent also, and he certainly should retain his seat in the house. But his genius for making friends and keeping them, his gay spirit, his willingness to admit mistakes, and his good nature, stretched out always for criticism about himself or his party are all in his favor. Already a real power in the Conservative party, the trouble is that Gordon, going places, has to take orders from old timers. If the Tory party does not come to the same end as the Liberals in England, it will be not very popular among Canadians.

"Contacting local lads over here seems rather a problem, moving of different goods. While on leave in London recently I ran into Ted Blencowe from home. We spent a very enjoyable weekend."

"Can't begin to express my thanks and appreciation on paper for the wonderful parcel which arrived a couple of days ago," writes Cpl. Fred Evans on May 20. "It was certainly enjoyed, believe me, and it came at a very suitable time too, as the ration just then were quite meagre. Sure was good to taste some Canadian products for a change. The Vets. are certainly doing their share in this campaign."
